

FURNITURES WORLD

Every room needs furniture that is both functional, and aesthetically pleasing. While it might seem like a daunting task to furnish an entire house, we've got you covered from top to bottom; bathroom to basement.

If you're a new home-owner looking to furnish your entire house, you're going to want to read this!

While some houses have breakfast nooks, walk-in closets, and powder rooms, we will just be covering the main rooms. Sometimes, not having the right furniture in a room can mean you just don't end up using it. Like the chair that never gets sat on because you throw all your coats on it, an entire room can go to waste. We want to provide you with a complete guide, a proverbial coat rack, so that things can go in the right place, and serve their function well. It's like Marie-Kondo says, "Life truly begins after you have put your house in order." Furniture can really enliven a space, give it purpose, and allow people to enjoy it.

The size of your home will greatly determine the amount of furniture you need, and some have amount of furniture you need, and some have guest rooms and basements, while city-dwellers may be just using closets for storage. This comprehensive guide will give you an idea of all the basics, so you can get started on creating your dream home today!

1.Coat Rack

The reality is, a really good coat rack can do it all. There are units you can buy that are multi-functional, including a shoe rack, bench, and coat rack. This is a great route if you are tight on space! You can also install a rack on the wall, which requires having studs in the wall, and using anchors for your screws: I've had many experience of hanging racks getting ripped out of the wall because of the weight of the coats. It can, however, create a very elegant look, and keep the coats away from the dirt on the floor.

2. Bedside Table

For some reason, there always seems to be a multitude of objects accumulating on my bedside table. Having storage beside the bed has proven invaluable. A small table with drawers can do the trick, giving you plenty of space for your books, jewelry, moisturizer, and maybe even your sleep mask.

Kid-friendly Furniture

Creating a cozy, fun, and virtually indestructible zone for the kids will take a lot of stress off your back. The basement can be a great place to allow them to wreak havoc, and use crayons on whatever they want. A table and chairs set like this one can be great for creating an arts and crafts zone!

You can choose how you want to lay out your home, and if there are pieces you don't need, don't buy them. Choose the pieces that are going to serve you, and make your home feel liveable.

At the end of the day, there are some essentials for every room in the house: good lighting, and depending on your style, a cozy rug. Rooms like the bathroom don't really need any major furniture, and only call for face towels, and maybe some extra organizing bins. The rest of the rooms in the house, however, need furniture. So, whether you're a first time home-owner, and looking to furnish your place from top to bottom, or you're just looking to spruce up your home with some new pieces, hopefully, this guide helped you sort through your needs, and find the right pieces for you!
